RESUMÉ 71

Rebul Academy Learned, Miss.

Dudley Cannada. . . Editor; Patricia Wood. . . Assistant Editor; Jacqueline Crawford. . . Business Manager; Ginger McNair. . . Sponsor.

FOREWORD

Rebul Academy has come a long way since its humble beginning in the summer of 1967. Its reasons for success have been many, but probably one of its greatest is the greatness of its builders. Where else in the world could five small communities, formerly content with their own separate systems join together to provide a more efficient and working school. People from different backgrounds; of rural, small town and suburban areas are brought together at Rebul. Probably nowhere can so many different types be found working so successfully together. This is evidence of Rebul's greatness through its people.

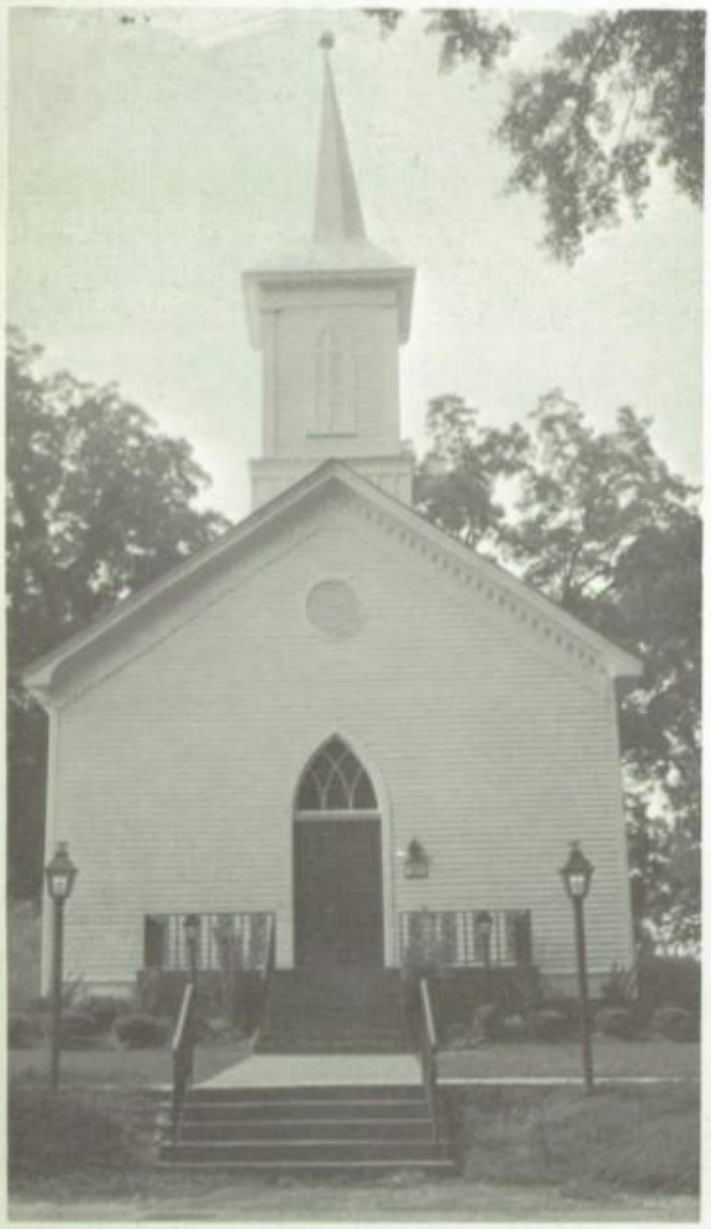
Raymond, Edwards Bolton, Utica, and Learned- the chief sources of REBUL students, combine a fine old heritage with a growing, greater future. The influence of the small town, each with its own community individuality affect the life of the student in many ways.

The Hinds County Court House (R) adds a colorful background to the progressive city of Raymond. (ABOVE) ancient church bell is another reminder of days gone by.



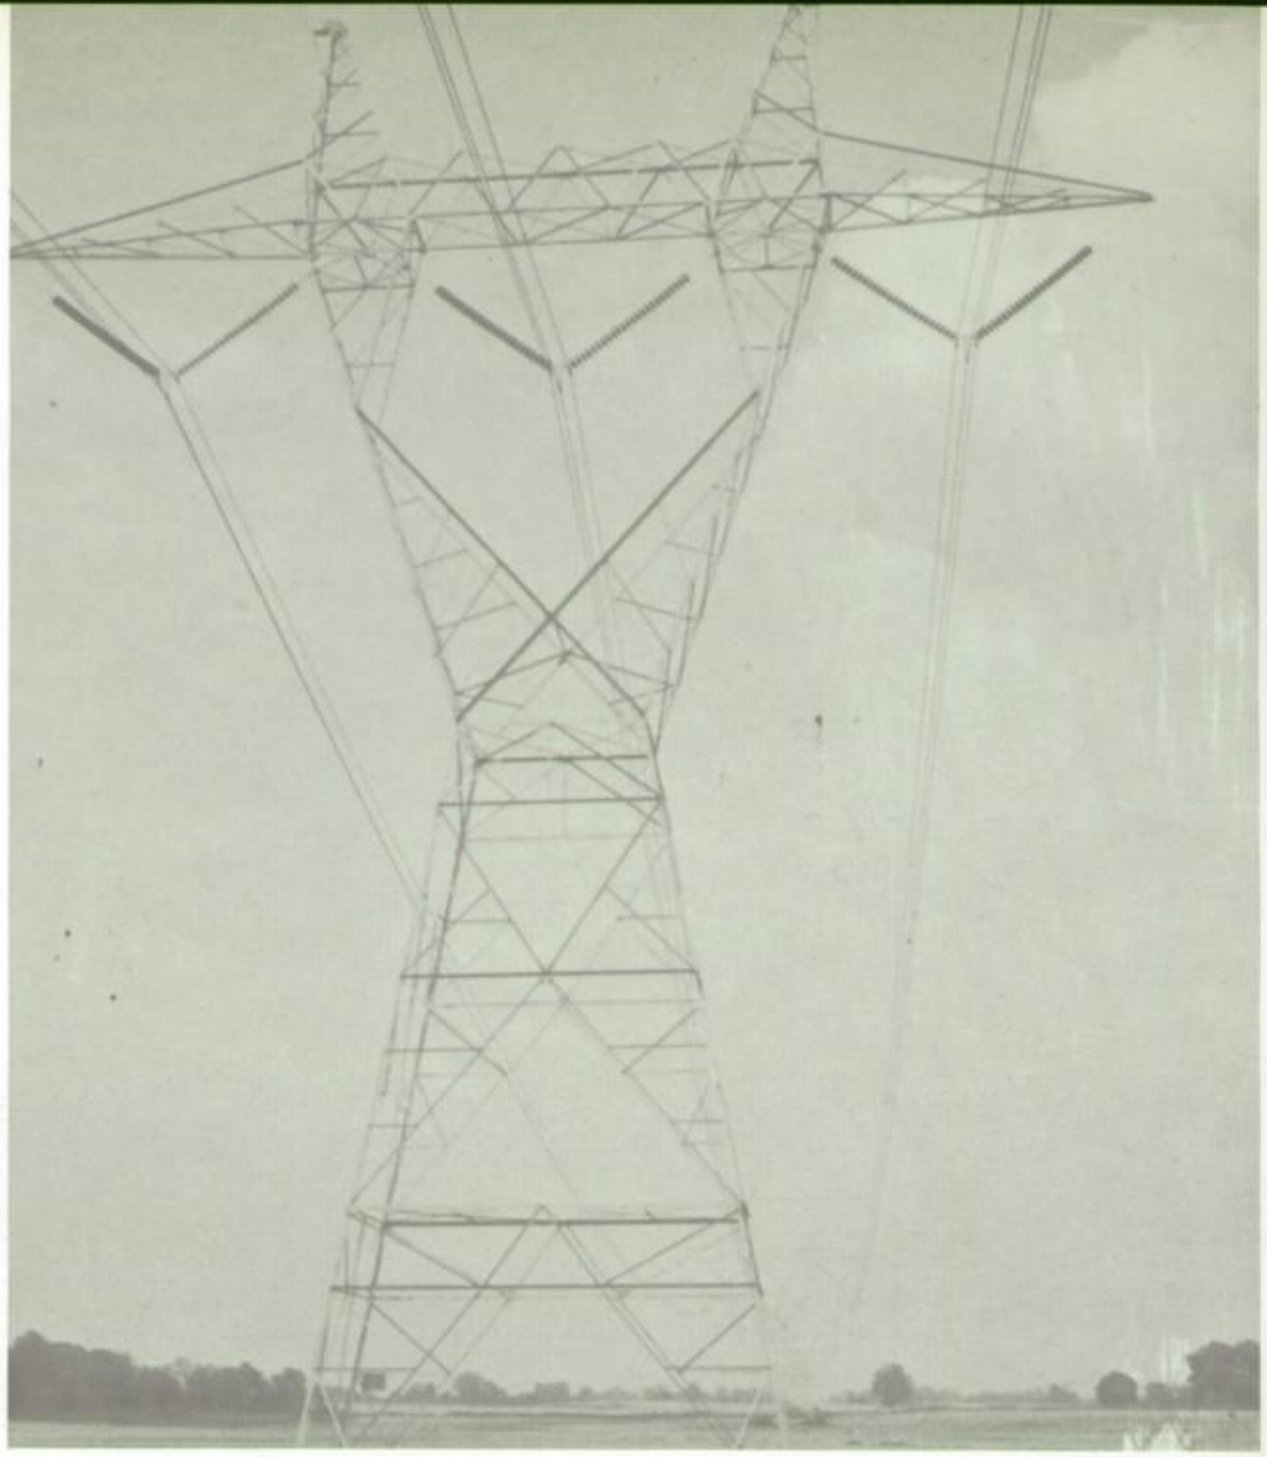
Edwards Presbyterian Church (ABOVE) stands on a hill in the center of town. Looking across town square (ABOVE R) gives a vew of the downtown area. (R) Overhead bridge a unique feature in Edwards.

The landscape of the Bolton area is dotted by sites such as the one above in the petroleum-rich area. (R) Old mansion on main street of the town is one of many of Bolton's impressive structures.

The Depot and Price Home in Utica are landmarks in the "Hub City" of Hinds County.

Learned downtown area is a reminder of a once prosperous business area, Learned is now a haven for its builders' descendants.

Not only does Rebul serve West Hinds County, it has students from the banks of the Mississippi at Vicksburg (could we say we were in the Delta) to the capitol city of Mississippi. Rebul students are from as far south as Copiah and Claborne Counties, taking in all of West Central Mississippi.

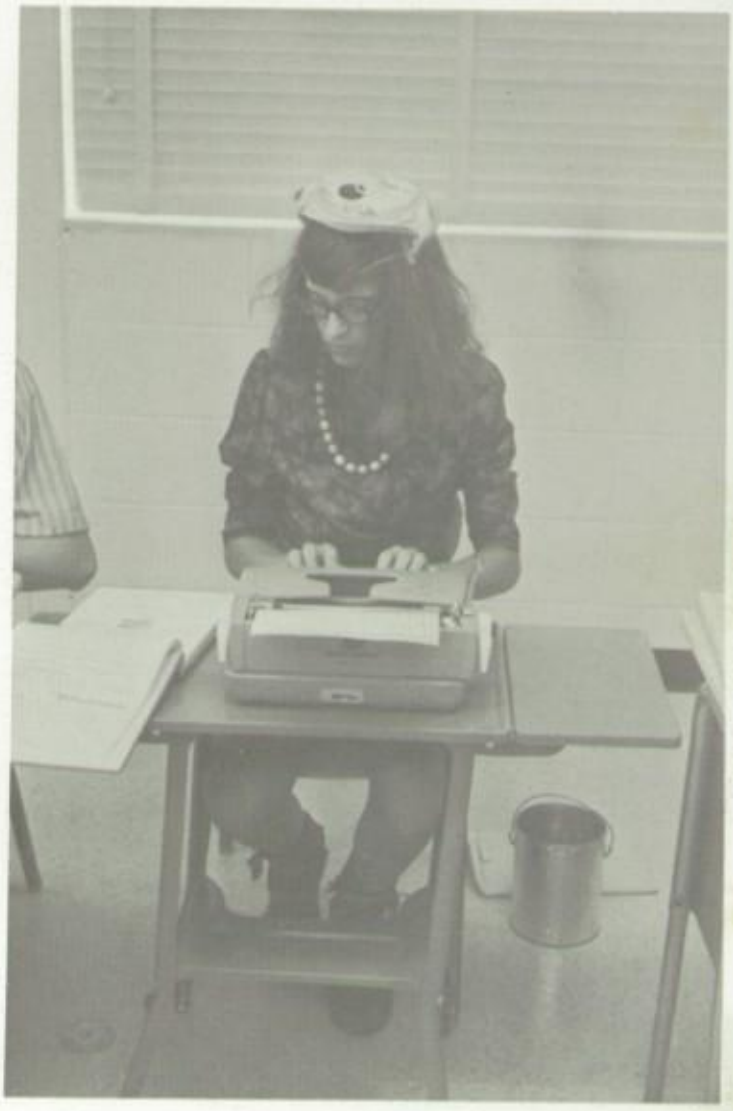


Industrial growth is evident in many parts of West Hinds County.

Jackson City Hall (L) is a landmark in the middle of a growing skyline (ABOVE).

And the cycle goes on every day, people are born and people die. Here in West Hinds County people change, maybe not as fast as in the rest of the world, but people still take on the new as they hold on to a proud past.

FRESHMAN DAY, held October 15, saw Naomi Martin and Jimmy Bailey take pies in the face as best dressed frosh. The Beta Club sponsored activity was a day filled with funky odors and lively action on the part of seniors and freshman alike.



HALLOWEEN converted the campus into a carnival of fun for young and old. This year the October 30 event grew to be the largest function ever sponsored at Rebul Academy. Fun houses, rides, games, coffeehouses, the old country store and something new, an Auxiliary spaghetti supper, made the night a terrific success.

The DANCES are perhaps a symbol of youth today. As long as Rebul has had High School it has had its dances. Far out sounds from heavy rock groups played as student jived by way of the Funky Chicken and other 71 steps. Songs made famous by Joplin, Hendricks, Guess Who, The Temptations, Jackson Five, Elton John, and many others set the pace for the guests of the Annual Staff at their third annual Christmas Dance. The Student Council's after ballgame dance and their third annual Spring Dance as well as the many senior parties and the more controversial "Prom" were among other dances given in the seventy, seventh-one year.

The SENIOR PLAY was presented April 6. The play--ALL BECAUSE OF AGATHA--was acclaimed as a spectacular performance. Donnie Cannada and Barbara Cain as Duff and Joanie O'Hara and Brenda Hyer as Agatha, the witch that haunted the O'Hara's home, along with a cast consisting of Beth Liggett, Curtis Buford, Carole Kitchens, Dudley Cannada, Caroline Moore, Gary Morrison, and Kathy Brown, thrilled the audience with their mushy love scenes and continuous humor.

I move all the way to Massachusetts to get away from my inlaws and I get a witch instead.

But do I have Sex Appeal??

Alright every body out!

Positively Caligarian.

Funny how kids grow up

some doing different things

some doing the same ole stuff

when you're young the only way to go--is up.
